Gen. Mright, whe formerly commanded a division of the 6th, is now in command of that corps for grievously deprived of its hand by the death of the beloved Sedgwick, the details of which I yesterday sent you. The grief of this and event intensities as it becomes known throughout the army. An effort was as dirst made to keep the said fact from the knowledge of his men. General Wright is an excellent soldier, and will command the 6th well.

The road which our troops faced runs from Orange Court House to Fredericksburg, and is forty-one miles long. It crosses no river Proceeding from Orange Court House, we come at a distance of tan miles to Parkeris Stere, six miles further brings us to Parkeris Stere, six miles further to Wilderness, twe miles further to Chancellowville, ten miles carefulcabourg.
